

Khadi is an emotion

Khadi is an emotion, spun from the earth,
A tapestry of dreams, a testament of worth,
Soft threads of cotton, touched by many hands,
Whispering stories of hope from far-off lands.

Each fibre a journey, a struggle, a fight,
In the fabric of freedom, it glows like a light.
Worn by the humble, adorned by the brave,
Khadi holds the spirit of those who pave.

With every stitch, a history unfolds,
Of unity forged in the warmth of the bold.
An embrace for the weary, a wrap of our pride,
In every fold lies the truth we can't hide.

Symbol of resilience, in simplicity crowned,
A thread that connects us, where love can be found.
Khadi is not merely a cloth that we wear, bound.
It's a feeling of freedom, a bond that we share.

In its gentle presence, our spirits take flight,
A fabric of passion, our shared morning light.
